The Memphis receipts of the week were

This receipt slightly increased the stock on hand, or which there was good demand all week, but oferings were generally light and poor. Our demand his season has been far teyond our ability to supdy, although our receipts have been 27,500 bales eyond those of last year. Had they been 100,000 ales more the whole stock could have been readily old. This is a consequence of the superiority of the cotton sold in this market, a superiority ecognized in the Exposition now going on in Paris, where it received the first

The Centennial passed down Sunday morning with a big trip. She added here 350 packages miscellaneous freight.

The Mark Twain, Captain J. D. Randall, is the packet this evening at five o'clock for all points on St. Francis river. Birdle Banning is her clerk.

The Gelden Rule passed down early resterday morning with a full load. She unloaded her model barge, O. P. The officers of the Golden Crown and her agent here at Memphis have not covered themselves "all over with giory" in this yellow-fever business. There's a mystery about the matter that it will take more than words to clear up.

The Maumelle, Captain Thomas Darragh in command, will be found in port this morning, receiving for her return trip to Arkansas river. She gets away at five o'clock this evening, going through to Little Rock. Charles Musselman is her clerk.

Captain Walker, or the officer commanding the Golden Crown, was handed by Dr. Lawrence, of the Memphis quarantine station, a letter for Dr. Erskine, the Memphis health officer, to be delivered to the tag that went to visit the Crown from the port of Memphis, which Dr. Erskine did not get. The proudest man in three kingdoms is Bob Speed—not so much because that new Aikansas river packet is named after his boy, but because she is one of the pretilest boats ever built for a southern trade. Those intarested in the Arkansas river trade just went overboard in ecstacles over her beautiful arrangements and comely proportions. She's a daisy, and no mistake. Ed Nowland had her built just like he wanted her, and that accounts for her excellence over all predecessors.

The Katle Hooper, which enters the Memphis and Cincinnatt trade this afternoon, is one of the neatest and perhaps best appointed packets that runs into Memphis. Especially will this remark apply to her passenger accommodations. She is almost entirely new, has all the modern conveniences of a passenpassenger accommodations. She is almost entirely new, has all the modern conveniences of a passenger packet, and runs like a greased streak of lightning. The se contemplating a trip up the country should not let the opportunity slip to go up on the Hooper. Captain Nowland knows how to make people feel at home on his boat, and when you consider how little money it takes to go east on the Hooper, the tourist will find that it is cheaper to travel by this route than it is to board at home and do your own housework. See tCaptain Lightburne and he will enthuse you with facts about traveling that are startling to contemplate. Quinine and Arsenic and rapid cure for any form of Fever and Ague.
